Definitions

In the Nursing Graduate Guarantee (NGG) program guidelines document, these terms have the following meanings:

Above Staffing Complement/Supernumerary: Above the quantity of nursing resources required to staff a unit to full capacity. The new nurse must not be used to fill staff shortages. This only applies to RNs and RPNs

Budget Request: A form issued through the NGG Online Portal and submitted by the employer to request funding for the NGG program.

College of Nurses of Ontario (CNO): The governing body for registered nurses (RNs), registered practical nurses (RPNs) and nurse practitioners (NPs) in Ontario, Canada.

Canadian Practical Nurse Registration Examination (CPNRE): A national examination that measures the competencies required of RPNs at the beginning of their practise. RPN applicants to the CNO must successfully complete the CPNRE to register as an RPN in Ontario.

Funding Agreement: The transfer payment agreement (TPA) between the Ministry of Health (the ministry) / Ontario Health (agency of the ministry) and a health care organization/employer participating in the NGG program. The TPA outlines the terms and conditions of the funding and stipulates the reporting requirements. Acute care employers (hospitals) will have an agreement with and receive funding through Ontario Health.

Funding Year: The period commencing April 1, 2026, and ending March 31, 2027.

Internationally Educated Nurse (IEN): A nurse who received their basic nursing education in a country other than Canada and who is within 12 months of obtaining their nursing license from the CNO,

Match: Process by which an employer offers an eligible new nurse a position in the NGG program, and the new nurse accepts the position on the NGG Online Portal.

Mentor/Mentorship: A formal supportive relationship between two or more nurses that has the potential to result in professional growth and development for both mentors and mentees, and support learning objectives. In the NGG program, a minimum of one mentor must be available for the new nurse throughout the transition into practise period. The ministry recommends that mentors be nurses with a minimum of 3-5 years of nursing experience. All attempts should be made to ensure there is continuity of the mentor(s) provided.

National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses (NCLEX-RN): A national examination that measures the competencies required of RNs at the beginning of their practise. RN applicants to the CNO must successfully complete the NCLEX-RN to register as an RN in Ontario.

New Nurse: A new nurse who is within 12 months of obtaining their nursing license from the CNO, and either graduated from a Canadian nursing education program or is an IEN applying to or participating in the NGG program, as per the eligibility requirements, Or a new Nurse Practitioner (NP) who is within 12 months of receiving their NP Extended Class Certificate with the CNO.

NGG Online Portal: The website that supports the functional requirements of the NGG program (e.g., posting of jobs, matching of nurses with employers, submission of budget requests and reporting, etc.). The Portal is accessible at <https://www.nursescareerstart.health.gov.on.ca>.

Registration/License Number: A unique identifier assigned to each nurse registered with the CNO. This number is used to verify a nurse's registration status available on Find a Nurse. In the context of the NGG program, the terms registration number and license number are used interchangeably. They specifically refer to the number associated with a nurse's certificate of registration, which confirms their authorization to practise within a designated class of registration.

Reinvestment Funds: Funding provided by the Ministry/Ontario Health to health care employers to invest in existing frontline nurses and their professional development. Reinvestment funds may be used for mentorship programs, professional development opportunities, internships in a specialty area, and initiatives to support existing frontline IENs working within the organization.

Transition Period: One year period beginning on the new nurse's start date of the transition into practise period (12 weeks). The employer is expected to transition the new nurse into a full-time position or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within this one-year period upon the completion of the Transition into Practise period (12 weeks),

Transition into Practise Leader: A designated leader within the organization who is accountable for the NGG program Transition into Practise period and tracks the progress with the new nurse(s) and mentor(s).

Transition into Practise Period: A 12-week period where the NGG program provides funding to the employer for the new nurse's Transition into Practise period. This period is a new nurse's introduction to the employing health care organization to support their Transition into Practise for the delivery of safe, high quality, patient centered care.

1. Overview of The Nursing Graduate Guarantee Program

1.1 The Nursing Graduate Guarantee Program

The Nursing Graduate Guarantee (NGG) program is funded by the Ministry of Health (the ministry) and supports new Registered Nurses (RNs) and Registered Practical Nurses (RPNs) who are within 12 months of obtaining their College of Nurses of Ontario (CNO) license, as well as new Nurse Practitioners (NPs) who are within 12 months of receiving their NP Extended Class Certificate with the CNO.

The NGG program provides RNs and RPNs with a temporary full-time employment opportunity above the employers' existing staffing complement, helping to support their Transition into Practise, and transition into full-time employment.

For NPs, the temporary full-time employment opportunity may either be above the employers' existing staffing complement or be part of it, helping to support their Transition into Practise, and transition into full-time employment.

The NGG program aims to:

- Support new nurses in Ontario as they Transition into Practise;
- Improve the integration of new nurses into the workforce;
- Promote the availability of full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for new nurses; and
- Promote health workforce planning at the organizational level.

1.2 How the NGG program Works

The NGG online portal is used to link new nurses to employers (<https://www.nursescareerstart.health.gov.on.ca>).

The ministry/Ontario Health will provide a total of 20 weeks of funding to employers per new nurse participating in the NGG program:

- 12 weeks for the new nurse's Transition into practise Period where the new nurse is working full-time or the equivalent of full-time hours and;
- 8 weeks for the reinvestment fund to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development. Section 4.2 lists eligible nursing re-investment options.

Note:

Employers may use the reinvestment period to extend the transition period but must submit a business case and obtain approval from the ministry prior to doing so. The reinvestment period cannot be reduced to zero weeks as it is a mandatory component of the program and employers must remain within the 20 weeks maximum. For example, an organization may extend the Transition into Practise period to 14 weeks and reduce the reinvestment period to 6 weeks, for a total of 20 weeks. Employers are not permitted to extend the reinvestment period beyond 8 weeks maximum.

NGG funding cannot be used to fund staff positions. The 12-week transition to practise period must be over and above the employers existing staffing complement for RNs and RPNs. For NPs, this period may either be over and above the organization's existing staffing complement or part of it

The new nurse's Transition into Practise period must meet the minimum requirements, set out in section 3.2.

Upon completion of the transition to practise period (12 weeks), the employer is expected to transition the new nurse into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise period (12 weeks).

Section 3.2 lists eligible nursing re-investment options.

Please see Appendix A for resources that may be helpful to new nurses and health care organization /employers participating in the NGG program.

2. Eligibility Requirements

2.1 Eligibility for New Nurses

Participation in the NGG program is open to RNs and RPNs who are within 12 months of obtaining their CNO nursing license, as well as NPs who are within 12 months of receiving their NP Extended class certificate.

Canadian educated nurses who:

- Graduated with a baccalaureate degree in nursing or a diploma from a practical nursing program in Canada;
 - For NPs – Hold current registration as a RN with CNO and completed a CNO-Approved NP program.
- Have not been employed in Ontario in the same nursing designation (RN, RPN, or NP) for which you are applying to the NGG program, within the last six months prior to participation;
- Match with an employer on the NGG Online Portal within 12 months of obtaining their CNO license or NP Extended class certificate.
- Are legally eligible to work full-time hours or the equivalent of full-time hours in Ontario and;
- Commit to accepting full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours with their NGG employer after completing the NGG program Transition into Practise period.

Internationally educated nurses (IENs) who:

- Completed their nursing education outside of Canada;
 - For NPs – Hold current registration as a RN with CNO and completed a CNO-Approved NP program.
- Have not been employed in Ontario in the same nursing designation (RN, RPN, or NP) for which you are applying to the NGG program, within the last six months prior to participation;
- Match with an employer on the NGG Online Portal within 12 months of obtaining their CNO license or NP Extended class certificate.

- Are legally eligible to work full-time hours or the equivalent of full-time hours in Ontario and;
- Commit to accepting full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours with their NGG employer after completing the NGG program Transition into Practise Period.

A request for the NGG program eligibility extension for a new nurse who has been registered with the College of Nurses of Ontario (CNO) for more than one year may be considered in the event of unforeseen circumstances and will be decided on an individual basis.

A request for an extension must be submitted to the ministry (NGGMOHLTC@ontario.ca) in writing, in advance of the nurse's eligibility expiration date. A new nurse who has not registered on the NGG online portal prior to their eligibility expiration date will not be considered for an extension.

Leaves of absence from the NGG program (e.g., health, parental, bereavement, jury duty, termination of temporary registration) are subject to applicable laws (e.g., Employment Standards Act), collective bargaining agreements or internal human resource policies set out by the employing organization.

The new nurse must have a valid CNO license, either in the Temporary or General Class, before beginning the NGG program Transition into Practise Period.

Nurses are ineligible to participate in the NGG and Community Commitment Program for Nurses (CCPN) simultaneously. Nurses can only apply once to the NGG program. Nurses who only completed a portion of the NGG cannot apply again for the NGG program.

2.2. Eligibility for Employers

The NGG program is open to health care employers from all sectors, including acute care, long-term care, home care, community care, mental health, public health, and primary care, provided they register on the NGG online portal.

To be eligible, an employer must:

- Be a health care organization that employs nurses and is funded by the government of Ontario for the provision of nursing services;
- Have the infrastructure to support successful implementation of the program (e.g., physical infrastructure, nursing education, or professional development and management supports); and
- Commit to transitioning new nurses into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks).

NGG program positions will not be funded in units and/or employer programs where there have been nursing reductions in that fiscal year, or anticipated nursing reductions. This includes, but is not limited to, units and/or employer programs where there is significant workforce instability.

3. Participating in the NGG program

3.1 Process for New Nurses

To be eligible to participate in the NGG program, the new nurse must follow the process outlined below.

Step 1: Register on the NGG Online Portal

The new nurse must register on the NGG online portal, accessible at <https://www.nursescareerstart.health.gov.on.ca>, by selecting "Register Now!" under the "Nursing Users" section.

Note: Once a user account is created, changes to the email address will not be permitted. Please ensure the correct email address is used to register.

Step 2: Match with an Employer on the NGG Online Portal

The new nurse uses the NGG online portal to match with an employer by:

1. Reviewing the NGG online portal job registry regularly;
2. Applying to positions offered on the job registry by employers within their 12-month eligibility period;
3. Completing the employer's interview process, and
4. Accepting a position that is offered by an employer on the NGG online portal.

After accepting the job offer on the NGG online portal, the new nurse has 72 hours to cancel and decline that job offer. Once 72 hours has passed, the employer and new nurse will have agreed to the match.

Step 3: Complete the Transition into Practise Period

The new nurse must complete the Transition into Practise period (12 weeks) with the employer in a temporary, full-time position that is above the existing staffing complement for RNs and RPNs. For NPs, this period may either be above the employers' existing staffing complement or part of it. Please see section 3.2 for additional information on the minimum requirements.

The employer is expected to transition the new nurse into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours within the organization for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise period (12 weeks).

3.2 Process for Employers

To be eligible to participate in the NGG program, the employer must follow the process outlined below.

Step 1: Register on the NGG Online Portal

The employer registers on the on NGG online portal, accessible at: <https://www.nursescareerstart.health.gov.on.ca>, by selecting "Register as Employer" under the "Health Care Organizations and Employer" section.

Note: The employer's contact information (e.g., email addresses) on the NGG online portal must always be up to date. The ministry sends important updates to employers via email.

Step 2: Match with a New Nurse on the NGG Online Portal

The employer uses the NGG online portal to match with a new nurse by:

1. Projecting the availability of full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for new nurses based on the employer's analysis of staffing and operational needs;
2. Posting positions on the NGG online portal;
3. Ensuring that a new nurse is eligible to participate in the NGG program before considering them for employment (i.e., ensuring the CNO registration number is valid, ensuring the new nurse meets the eligibility criteria of the NGG program, new nurse is legally eligible to work full-time hours or the equivalent of full-time hours in Ontario etc.).
4. Interview new nurse(s) considered for an NGG program position (following the employer's regular interview process) and;
5. Using the NGG online portal to provide selected new nurse(s) with an offer of employment in the program. The offer of employment must abide by any applicable collective agreement requirements.

After accepting the job offer on the NGG online portal, the new nurse has 72 hours to cancel and decline that job offer. Employers should not assume that acceptance of the position is final until 72 hours have passed.

The ministry requires that employers consult the union (if applicable) to ensure employment requirements are met, prior to posting positions for the NGG program, submitting budget requests, and utilizing the reinvestment funds.

Step 3: Request NGG Program Funding from the Ministry

The employer must request funding for the NGG program by submitting a budget request to the ministry through the NGG online portal, confirming:

1. The details of the offer;
2. That the union has been consulted (if applicable);
3. The employers' plan on how the reinvested funds will be utilized.
4. The employers' capacity and plan to transition the new nurse into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks) and;
5. Agreement to enter into a funding agreement with the ministry/Ontario Health.

Step 4: Provide the Transition into Practise Period

The employer must provide the new nurse with a Transition into Practise Period in a clinical setting (12 weeks). The NGG program transition into practise period must be in a supernumerary position (above staffing complement) for RNs and RPNs. For NPs, this period may either be over and above the organization's staffing complement or part of it. The Transition into Practise Period must build on the prior education and experience of the new nurse in the clinical setting.

The employer must adhere to the following minimum Transition into Practise Period requirements:

1. Provide the new nurse with a minimum of 3 to 6 days of general orientation to the organization, allowing the new nurse to gain consistent knowledge on organizational practises, policies and standards;
2. Ensure the new nurse is provided full-time or the equivalent of full-time hours during the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks);
3. Ensure the new nurse starts the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks) on or before December 31st of the funding year
4. Ensure that a mentor(s) is available to work with the new nurse and that there is a designated Transition into Practise Leader who is accountable for implementing the NGG program and tracking the progress with the new nurse and mentor(s);
5. Define the roles of the new nurse, mentor(s) and designated Transition into Practise Leader;

6. Ensure that a learning plan is developed by the new nurse and mentor, with input from the designated Transition into Practise leader. The learning plan should be used to monitor the new nurse's progress; and
7. Meet the goals of the learning plan by including a variety of teaching strategies and delivery methods to educate on competencies, as it relates to the area/unit of employment of the new nurse.

The new nurse must have access to a mentor at all times, and the employer should make all attempts to ensure there is continuity in the mentor(s) provided. The ministry recommends that mentors be nurses with a minimum of 3-5 years of nursing experience. The level of independence for a new nurse with patients at the point of care must be agreed upon by the nurse, mentor, and designated Transition into Practise Leader.

The new nurse (RNs and RPNs) must be above employers' existing staffing complement in all circumstances for the duration of the Transition into Practise Period. For NPs, this period may either above the employer's existing staffing complement or part of it.

For RNs and RPNs only, the new nurse must retain their regular, above staffing complement duties, even if the unit is functioning below staffing complement (e.g., the new nurse must not replace an existing frontline nurse if they call in sick).

Step 5: Transition the New Nurse into a Full-Time Position

Upon the completion of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks), the employer is expected to transition the new nurse into a full-time position or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within the one-year period which begins on the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks).

This requirement may be waived if the employer determines that the new nurse does not have the required competencies for safe, quality care in the specific practise setting, taking into consideration any applicable collective agreement requirements.

Funding will be recovered from the organization should the new nurse not transition into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within the one-year period which begins on the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks) unless there were extenuating circumstances where this was not possible.

Step 6: Spend the Reinvestment Funds

The employer must spend the reinvestment funds provided by the Ministry/Ontario Health to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development, Section 4.2 lists eligible nursing re-investment options.

4. Use of Funds and Reporting Requirements

4.1 Funding Process

The NGG program funding process is as follows:

1. Employers request funding by submitting a budget request to the ministry for each new nurse through the NGG online portal. Budgets can be submitted until December 2026, All budget requests must be reviewed and signed by the union representative (if applicable) and a senior nursing leader (SNL);
2. The ministry reviews all budget requests and approves/denies the budget requests in accordance with the eligibility requirements (each budget request is subject to final approval from the Minister of Health or delegate);
3. Employers enter into a funding agreement with the ministry/Ontario Health; and,
4. The ministry/Ontario Health issues 100% of the applicable funds once the budget request has been approved by the ministry

Subject to the ministry's approval, the ministry/Ontario Health will provide 20 weeks of funding to employers for new nurses participating in the program:

- 12 weeks for the new nurse's Transition into Practise Period where the new nurse is working full-time or the equivalent of full-time hours; and;
- 8 weeks for the reinvestment fund to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development. Section 4.2 lists eligible nursing re-investment options

The funding amount will be calculated based on the new nurse's salary and benefits for up to 40 hours a week (depending on the employer's full-time hours e.g., 37.5 hours), as indicated in the budget request submitted to the ministry. Full time hours must be between 37 -40 hours weekly.

The ministry will reimburse employers per nurse at the following rates plus fixed 24% for benefits:

Nurse Category	Hourly Rate	Hourly Rate with 24% Benefits
RPNs	$25-$32	$31-$39.68
RNs	$32-$49	$39.68-$60.76
NPs	$58.74	$72.84

Employers are responsible for ensuring that new nurses are paid sector-appropriate wages based on the rates negotiated between the employer and the bargaining unit (if applicable).

4.2 Use of Funds

Employers must use the funds provided under the NGG program as follows:

- Funds for the New Nurse's Transition into Practise Period – The funds applicable to the 12 weeks Transition into Practise Period must be used for the new nurse's salary and benefits. These funds may not be used for salary or incentives for nurse educators, coordinators, mentors, or for similar purposes.

- Reinvestment Fund – The funds applicable for the reinvestment fund must be used to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development in one of the following eligible categories:
 - Mentorship Programs: Funding may be used for nurse-to-nurse mentorship education programs. Funding may also be used to build/strengthen the mentorship capacity of the employer through the training of mid-career nurses to become effective mentors to new graduates.
 - 80/20 For Staff Nurses: Funding may be used to back-fill staff nurses, allowing them to spend 20% of their time on professional development opportunities (e.g., nursing councils, patient teaching, research, education). The remaining 80% of their time would be spent in clinical practise.
 - Internships for Experienced Nurses in Specialty Areas: Funding may be used to allow more experienced nurses to spend time in an internship in a specialty area, above staffing complement, to assist them in gaining the knowledge and skills required to fill existing and potential vacancies.
 - Initiatives to Support IENs: Funding may be used to help existing frontline IENs working within the organization.
 - Innovative Solutions: Funding may be used to support the creation and implementation of innovative solutions, including technology-based solutions, to improve care delivery to support improved patient experience, transition, and care outcomes.

NGG program funding may not be used for the additional premiums paid to mentors, capital investments, or similar expenses.

The ministry requires that employers consult their union (if applicable) prior to utilizing the reinvestment funds.

All NGG funds must be spent by March 31st of the funding year for which the funds are allocated, or these funds will be subject to recovery by the Ministry.

4.3 Provision of Funds

The ministry/Ontario Health will provide the applicable funds as follows:

- For all approved budget requests, 100% of the applicable funds will be provided to the eligible employer following ministry/Ontario Health receipt of the executed funding agreement.

4.4 Reporting Requirements

Employers who receive NGG program funding will be required to demonstrate accountability for use of the funds within one year from the new nurse's start date.

The funding agreement will outline the terms and conditions for use of the approved funds and will stipulate the reporting requirements of the employer, including completion of a financial program and the Annual Reconciliation Report Certificate (ARRC). The ARRC is a document signed by the financial authorities of a health care organization (e.g., Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer) to attest that the NGG program final financial reports reflect the audited financial statements of the organization.

Financial and Program Reports will require the verification of the Chief Executive Officer (OE Signatory), senior nursing leader (SNL), and the union representative (if applicable).

The ministry requires that employers maintain ongoing dialogue with the union representative (if applicable) to ensure they sign reports. If the union representative does not verify and sign the final reporting, they will be required to provide a rationale to the ministry.

Note: For audit purposes, employers are required to create and maintain employment records for each eligible NGG participant hired. Employers need to maintain records with respect to ensuring that the participant is a new graduate nurse without prior employment experience, six months prior to participating in the NGG program. At the request of the ministry, employers are expected to provide employment records including the following details for each eligible NGG participant:

- CNO license number
- NGG start and end date
- Previous employment history
- Gross amount paid (salary and benefits)

The ministry will recover funds under the following circumstances:

- Failure to obtain support from union representatives (if applicable) before participating in the NGG (recovery of 100% of funds);
- Failure to comply with the minimum Transition into Practise Period requirements or to transition the new nurse into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks). (Recovery of 100% of the funds);
- Failure to complete and submit all fully signed reports by the ministry established deadline (recovery of 100% of the funds); and
- Failure to obtain verification from union representatives on final reporting (if applicable) (recovery of 20% of funds).

Exceptions may be permitted in the event of unforeseen circumstances and will be decided on an individual basis.

Appendix A - Resources

The following resources can be used to support employers and new nurses in participating in the Nursing Graduate Guarantee (NGG):

1. Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario (RNAO) – RNAO is the professional association representing registered nurses, nurse practitioners and nursing students in Ontario. Their mission is to foster knowledge-based nursing practise, promote quality work environments, deliver excellence in professional development, and advance healthy public policy to improve health. <http://rnao.ca/>

The RNAO has two career websites that support employment searching and provide career services. These websites are available at:

- <http://www.rncareers.ca>
- <http://careersinnursing.ca/>

2. Ontario Nurses' Association (ONA) – ONA is the trade union that represents registered nurses and allied health professionals working throughout Ontario. ONA's Letter of Understanding regarding 'supernumerary positions', available online in the Central Agreement, may serve as a reference for implementing the Transition into Practise period through the NGG. The ONA website is accessible at <http://www.ona.org>

Appendix B – Frequently Asked Questions

1. What is the Nursing Graduate Guarantee (NGG) program?

The NGG program provides new graduate nurses in Ontario, including those who studied out-of-province and abroad, with temporary full-time employment, , to support their successful Transition into Practise. The NGG program supports participating nurses in successfully transitioning into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours.

2. What are the new changes to the NGG program 2026/27 and onwards?

The NGG program includes:

- A. Nurse Practitioners (NPs) are eligible to participate in the NGG program
- B. Eligibility has been re-defined from "no nursing employment in the last 6 months" to "no employment in Ontario in the same nursing designation (RN, RPN, or NP) within the last 6 months," allowing nurses with recent experience in a different designation to qualify. For example, if you are applying as an RN, you must not have worked as an RN in the last six months; however, you may have worked as an RPN during that time. The same principle applies across all designations (RNs, RPNs, and NPs).
- C. Benefits rate that is applied on top of the hourly wage is now a fixed standard of 24% for all employers.

3. Are graduates from out-of-province (e.g., outside Ontario) nursing programs eligible to participate in the NGG program?

Canadian new graduate nurses and internationally educated nurses (IENs) who choose to live and work in Ontario and are within 12 months of obtaining their nursing license from the College of Nurses of Ontario (CNO) as well as new Nurse Practitioners (NPs) who are within 12 months of receiving their NP Extended Class Certificate with the CNO are eligible to participate in the NGG program.

New graduates are responsible for ensuring they are legally eligible to work full-time or full-time equivalent hours in Ontario. NGG employers are also responsible to ensure that the new nurse they hire is legally eligible to work full-time or full-time equivalent hours in Ontario.

4. How long will the NGG program positions last?

Eligible employers receive a total of 20 weeks of funding per new nurse participating in the NGG program. This includes 12 weeks for the new nurse's Transition into Practise period and 8 weeks for the reinvestment fund to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development.

5. How does participating in the NGG program help me transition into full-time employment?

The NGG program supports new nurses in transitioning to full-time employment, or the equivalent of full-time hours by helping them develop the skills required to deliver safe, high quality, patient-centred care in practise. Additionally, participating NGG employers are expected to transition new nurses into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within 12 months of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period.

Employer:

6. How does my organization participate in the NGG program?

Employers must complete the following requirements to participate:

1. Analyze staffing and operational needs to project the need for full-time positions (or equivalent of full-time hours).
2. Obtain union support (if applicable) prior to participating in the program.
3. Register and post NGG program positions on the NGG online portal.
4. Interview new nurses (following the employer's regular interview process).
5. Use the NGG online portal to provide selected nurses with an offer of employment.
6. Submit a budget request to the Ministry of Health (ministry) through the NGG online portal, confirming:
 - a) The details of the offer;
 - b) That the union has been consulted (if applicable);
 - c) The organization's plan on how the reinvested funds will be utilized and;

- d) The organization's capacity and plan to transition the new nurse into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks).
7. Enter into a funding agreement with the ministry/ Ontario Health.
8. Provide the new nurse with a Transition into Practise Period (12 weeks) in a full-time clinical setting that is above the regular staffing complement for RNs and RPNs. For NPs, the NGG position may either be above the employer's existing staffing complement or part of it.
9. Offer the new nurse a full-time position (or the equivalent of full-time hours) within one year of the new nurse's start date in the NGG program. Employment must be for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) or funds will be subject to recovery by the ministry.
10. Use NGG program funds, including the reinvestment funds, by March 31st of the funding year for which they were allocated, or these funds will be subject to recovery by the Government of Ontario.
11. Submit final reports online, including financial, program and an Annual Reconciliation Report Certificate (ARRC).

7. Which health care employers are eligible to participate in the NGG program?

The NGG program is open to health care employers from all sectors, including acute care, long-term care, home care, community care, mental health, public health, and primary care, provided they register on the NGG online portal. To be eligible, an employer must:

1. Be a health care organization that employs nurses and is funded by the Government of Ontario for the provision of nursing services.
2. Have the infrastructure to support successful implementation of the NGG program (e.g., physical infrastructure, nursing education or professional development and management supports); and
3. Commit to transitioning new nurses into full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours within one year of the new nurses' start dates.

8. How will the new nurses be compensated?

The ministry/Ontario Health will reimburse employers per nurse at the following rates plus fixed 24% for benefits:

Nurse Category	Hourly Rate	Hourly Rate with 24% Benefits
RPNs	$25-$32	$31-$39.68
RNs	$32-$49	$39.68-$60.76
NPs	$58.74	$72.84

Employers are responsible to ensure that new nurses are paid sector-appropriate wages based on the rates negotiated between the employer and the bargaining unit (if applicable).

9. How will the NGG program funding be released to my organization?

For all approved budget requests, 100% of the applicable funds will be provided to the eligible employer following ministry receipt of the executed funding agreement. Funds may be subject to recovery should provisions under the NGG Guidelines; Section 4.2 are not met.

10. Does my organization have to guarantee the NGG nurse a full-time position after the NGG program?

The employer is expected to offer the new nurse full-time employment or the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks) within one year (12 months) of the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period. As part of the budget request process, the ministry will ask employers to demonstrate at the outset that they have the capacity and a plan to transition the NGG nurse into full-time employment or provide the equivalent of full-time hours within one year of the new nurse's start date.

11. What happens if an employer cannot transition the NGG nurse into a full-time position or the equivalent of full-time hours at the end of the program?

Employers have one year from the new nurse's start date of the Transition into Practise Period to transition them into a full-time position or provide the equivalent of full-time hours for a minimum of 6 months (26 weeks). If the new nurse does not make the transition because of extenuating circumstances, the ministry will engage in discussions with the organization to determine whether more time is needed. In other situations where the new nurse does not make the transition, funds may be recovered from the organization.

12. What advantages does the NGG program offer to my organization?

Through the NGG program, eligible employers receive 20 weeks of funding to support a new nurse's Transition into Practise and to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development. The NGG program also promotes health workforce planning at the organizational level by encouraging employers to project the availability of, and create full-time positions, based on an analysis of staffing and operational needs.

13. We're located in a remote area that's hard to "sell" to new nurses. How will the NGG program help us?

The NGG program helps employers in rural and remote areas by providing access to a large pool of Canadian new graduate nurses and IENs through the NGG online portal. The portal provides potential employers with an ability to connect with a broader range of new nurses to promote their organization. The portal can be accessed through the following link: <http://www.nursescareerstart.health.gov.on.ca>

14. How does the reinvestment fund work?

Reinvestment funds are provided to all participating employers to support existing frontline nurses and their professional development. Reinvestment funds may be used for mentorship programs, professional development opportunities, internships in a specialty area and initiatives to support existing frontline IENs working within the organization.

15. What are the different types of reinvestment initiatives?

Participating employers can use the reinvestment funds to support existing frontline nurses by spending the funds in the following categories:

- Mentorship Programs: Funding may be used for nurse-to-nurse mentorship education programs. Funding may also be used to build/strengthen the mentorship capacity of employers through the training of mid-career nurses to become effective mentors to new graduates.
- 80/20 For Staff Nurses: Funding may be used to back-fill staff nurses, allowing them to spend 20% of their time on professional development opportunities (e.g., nursing councils, patient teaching, research, education). The remaining 80% of their time would be spent in clinical practise.

- Internships for Experienced Nurses in Specialty Areas: Funding may be used to allow more experienced nurses to spend time in an internship in a specialty area, above staffing complement, to assist them in gaining the knowledge and skills required to fill existing and potential vacancies.
- Initiatives to Support IENs: Funding may be used to help existing frontline IENs working within the organization.
- Innovative Solutions: Funding may be used to support the creation and implementation of innovative solutions, including technology-based solutions, to improve care delivery to support improved patient experience, transition and care outcomes.

16. If my organization submits a funding request, is it guaranteed that it will receive funding?

The ministry will review budget requests to determine if they meet the NGG program eligibility criteria. Priority is given to requests that meet current nursing workforce demands. Health care employers will be informed through the NGG online portal if their budget requests are declined. Please see the 2025-26 NGG guidelines for more details.

17. I work for an organization that has several sites. If I hire a new nurse into a full-time position at a different site from the one where the new nurse participated in the Transition into Practise Period, would I meet the requirement of providing a full-time position?

A nurse can Transition into Practise in a different site within the same organization if there is a formal relationship between the sites (e.g., legal relationship), and all other program criteria are met. If there is uncertainty, employers should check with the ministry prior to beginning the NGG program.

18. Does the one-year period to transition new nurses to full-time employment begin when they start their Transition into Practise Period or when they have completed the 12 weeks?

The one-year period begins when the new nurse starts their Transition into Practise Period.

19. Who can I contact if I have questions or problems related to the NGG portal?

If you have questions or need support, please contact: nggmohltc@ontario.ca.
